

THE GLEICHEN CALL

VOLUME XXXVIII NO. 4

GLEICHEN, ALBERTA, WEDNESDAY APRIL 11, 1945

SUBSCRIPTION $2.00 PER YEAR

COLLECTIONS FOR THE RED CROSS VERY SATISFACTORY

The collections for the Red Cross during the recent campaign in the town and district was $884, which was $87 more than was collected last year. The local branch will get 15 percent of the money collected to be used to carry on their work.

The campaign management wish to extend their thanks to all who gave to the fund and to all who helped with the collection.

The convener were: Mrs. G. Brown, Mrs. W. Schmidt, W. Varnell, T. Foggart, R. C. Clifford, A. F. McCallum, A. W. Gilbert and W. Blazer.

THE OTTAWA NEWS LETTER

The galleries of the House of Commons have been well filled during this session. This means that there is much public interest in the problems being discussed. The impression is that there will be a Dominion election about the middle of summer. Some members are giving up their policies on record, during the last few months of a parliament that is being dissolved by the end of the session.

The life of parliament expires five years after the writs of an election are returned. It is seldom that the House of Parliament meets on the last day. Usually the government chooses the time for election when for some reason the people are prosperous and happy. They do this with the hope of being re-elected. This year the election has been postponed because the prime minister was determined not to have an election during the war. He feared that it might divert the attention of ministers and officers from the war effort. He, himself, has not left his post for more than a day or two since the war started and in all this time has never visited his own constituency of Prince Albert. There can be no such thing as a snap election for the Dominion. In order to give every soldier, wherever he may be, a chance to vote a period of sixty days at least must elapse between the time the writs are issued and voting takes place. Although the parliament will be dissolved on April 17th, 1945 yet the government must not carry on and continue with civil and military administration.

Money can be provided by Governmental warrents for a limited time. There is no chance of getting an extension of the life of parliament. To do this an address supported by almost all the members would need to be sent to the British government. It might be granted if a very few of the 245 members only opposed but if any party objected there would be no chance of getting an extension. However, it is not being seriously considered. What the people really represents Canada at the peace conference really should have a fresh verdict from the people. Problems of planning for an enduring peace will require experienced statesmanship of a high order.

As President Green of the A.F.L. states everyone is looking forward to a new era of vastly expanding economy and greater opportunities. It can only be secured if the policy of purpose which will have won this terrible war is projected into the reconstruction period.

F. W. GERSHAW.

Canada's six-acre feed estates are the big demand in the liberated countries. France has just placed her second order for 15,000 tons of them. Another thing that makes Canada need poultry and eggs is that, thanks to our controlled prices, other countries can acquire their shipments at ceiling prices.

What about the car we are planning to buy once the gasoline and tire shortage is over? What is that car going to cost? There's the rub. Thinking out loud, the United States automobile manufacturers state that prices will be from 25 percent to 30 percent above the prewar level. A nation wide survey of auto owners reveals that 75 percent of them say they will not buy new cars if they have to pay for them. Ironically enough, the same survey stated that 53 percent of the dealers believe that higher prices will have "very little effect." In Canada we are not used to price increases. If our friends across the border intend to hold out, probably we can get along with the old jalopy too.

News Items of Local Interest

Mr. and Mrs. Jake Bollinger returned to their farm northeast of town last week after having spent the winter at their old home in Tennessee. They report having had a grand time.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen C. House of the Buffalo Hill district south of Arrowwood spent the weekend here visiting friends and giving the town the once over. While here they attended W. Brown's birthday party Saturday night.

Bill McIntyre who has been located at Camp Shilo, Manitoba for some months past has been home on furlough.

After being overseas for several years with the Canadian Army N. Gillette returned home last Thursday morning. During the coming season he will operate his mother's farm north east of Gleichen.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Webb spent the weekend at Swallow visiting relatives. They came home Sunday afternoon and reported a foot of snow lying on the road for the entire distance and that everyone they had met was jubilant over the heavy snowfall since the moisture was just what was wanted this time of the year.

Leith Gilbert and Benny Woods will leave this week for B. C. where they will begin their railroad career. They will engage in the work of installing automatic electric railway switches. They expect to be away all summer.

One of those funny, overbearing women who seem to think the world was made expressly for them, got on a bus and began fuming noisily over being compelled to stand. She roared along her way along, finally coming to anchor in front of a tired workman. Soon he tapped her on the shoulder and said: "Madam, would you mind getting off?"

FROM THE FILES OF THE CALL TWENTY YEARS AGO

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Batty left Monday for Strathmore where they will be future residents and will be missed by many friends in Gleichen. Mr. Batty has accepted a position in charge of the C.P.R. poultry department at Strathmore. For a number of years Mr. Batty has conducted the Gleichen dairy business here, which he has now disposed of to Mr. W. J. Montgomery, who is already in charge and aims to give a service that will meet Gleichen's every requirement.

Oecil Lyons has returned from Lake Louise, where he has been working on the new addition to the C. P. R. hotel and station. It will be a splendid addition when finished. Since his return he has been appointed chief instructor in L. McPherson's tin-pounding academy.

Word has been received that Dr. Brer is in a Calgary hospital suffering from a broken leg as a result of being run over.

Tommy Scott has returned to town after spending the winter in Didsbury.

Miss Emma Jones spent a few days at her home in Gleichen last week visiting her parents and left Sunday for Edmonton.

Tom Bartz and bride of Arrowwood recently arrived home from their trip to Ireland. Tom is glad to be home and says Arrowwood is heaven below compared to Ireland of today. He reports no "rings" phones in Ireland and says that when neighbors want to talk to each other they go to the back door and "hollo", Tom paid $7 for an ordinary sized turkey while he was there. He is in the intention to stay. No more trips to Ireland for him.

Twenty-one elevators are to be built between Lomond and Arrowwood so it looks as though there should be no trouble for the farmers to get rid of their grain next fall. At the same time stores of all kinds are springing up like mushrooms on the prairie.

Mrs. Joe McCabe of Ontario is visiting relatives in Queenstown at the present time. Messrs. Calquhoun and Thomas have sold their farms on the reserve and will journey to the state of Washington where they will be future milk and cheese producers.

"foot!" She bristled up and glanced at him while she replied: "Why don't you put your big foot where it belongs?" With equal rudeness he snapped back: "Don't tempt me, Madam, don't tempt me."

W. W. Brown celebrated his 78 birthday Saturday evening when a number of his friends met at his home for the occasion.

There was no school last week so all the boys and girls had a holiday. The only fault they could find was the cold miserable weather that prevailed during the whole week.

Garden minded Canadians can expect a normal supply of garden tools for 1945. It is pointed out that manufacturing of tools is not limited by materials and labor. In view of the general tight food supply situation forecast for 1945, Canadians will be urged to conserve food better 1944 efforts. Collective production results of wartime gardens show that vegetables alone grown in private gardens saved 2,016 freight cars, loaded to 50,000 pounds capacity of Canadian transportation facilities.

An average of 55 persons were injured, some fatally, every month in Alberta during 1944, according to the annual report of the provincial secretary's department. The figures emphasize the need of greater safety on highways and the promotion of safety educational programs. During the year 652 persons were injured in accidents, compared with 827 the year before. The number of fatal accidents was 41, compared with 56 the previous year.

During the Great War, tetanus, commonly known as lockjaw, killed 70 out of every 100 soldiers infected. During this war it was not a single case of it has been reported in the Canadian Army! This remarkable achievement is the result of compulsory immunization of army personnel. Ordered early in 1940, every officer and man in the service was given injection of toxoid, developed at the Pasteur Institute of Paris in 1923, makes the body immune to infection by stimulating the production of what medical men call tetanus "anti-bodies."

NATIONAL REVENUE

As it gets along to the time of year when people start reaching for the aspirins and the income tax forms, this week's government department is National Revenue—a department responsible for collecting income taxes, excise taxes, duties and customs duties. It maintains 151 custom excise posts and 18 district income tax offices throughout the country.

It does a pretty efficient job of hauling in the shekels, and because it does half of our war costs are paid for out of taxation. Of course everybody knows how taxes have gone up, but did you know that in the year ending March 31, 1939, only $145 million was paid in income tax, while last year collections ran up to $1,835 million.

There extra pennies you pay on soft drinks, cigarettes, chocolate bars, chewing gum, etc., ran up to $678 million last year, compared with $156 million before the war. Even customs duties increased, though imports declined, from $89 million to $187 million.

Needless to say, the number of people paying income tax has gone up, too, from 528,000 to 2,600,000! And has taken more people to sort and check and receipt the tax returns, 1,312 in 1939 and 5,200 today!

LAUGH AND THE WORLD LAUGHS WITH YOU

"And the night shall be filled with music And the ears that infest the day Shall fold their tents like the Arabs And as silently steal away."

Two little miles of about six and seven respectively were going with considerable interest at the store in the zoo, when the usual interminable old lady asked up.

"Those are lovely, my dear," she purred. "The clever birds that brought you to your mother and father." The youngsters looked at one another and one whispered: "Poor old thing! Shall we tell her?"

HEAVY FALL OF SNOW SUNDAY MOST WELCOME

During Sunday almost a foot of snow fell and since then it has been slowly melting. The moisture is most welcome and since the frost is out of the ground for several inches most of the water will soak in to the soil instead of running off. A couple of weeks ago it looked as if spring had arrived but a cold wave and snow set it back somewhat. Last week grass had begun to turn green.

A SHORTAGE OF MEAT

The people of Britain are facing a severe shortage of meat and other livestock products. The reason for the shortage is that Britain is shipping large quantities of her own resources to alleviate the intense suffering brought about by the lack of food of the European people in countries which have been liberated by the Allies. The information is that the United States had to cut down on her usual shipments of meat and other livestock products to Britain. This means that Canada will have to ship more meat and other livestock products to Britain and to other overseas countries than she has been doing.

The rationing of eggs, therefore, will have to be resumed in Canada. Farmers will be asked to ship all the meat they possibly can, which also means that farmers together with the rest of the people in Canada, will be asked to consume less meat. There is one thing that almost everyone in the smaller towns and communities can do, much better than city people, to supplement their diet, which is to put in a good vegetable garden, for vegetable can make the place of some meat in the diet. Now is the time to think about such a victory garden. Those who con-

WILL YOU BE UP IN THE AIR...

...IF YOUR TIRES LET YOU DOWN?

VISIT US FOR EXPERT TIRE CARE REGULARLY!

Our tire experts know all the skilled Goodyear ways of keeping tires "going" to give you months of extra mileage in these days of hard-to-get rubber. Our tire repairing, vulcanizing, and retreading is conscientious... guaranteed... and reasonably priced. Goodyear tire conservation service will see you through to the end of your tire's life.

YOUR GOODYEAR DEALER

CENTRAL MOTORS Phone 16 GLEICHEN ALBERTA

What does YOUR FARM NEED?

How often have you said "If I could only raise the money?" Well, if you could, what would you do to improve your farm and increase your production?

Would you build a modern barn?
or buy new machinery?
or modernize your house?
or electrify your farm?

You can raise short term money from your bank and long term money from other institutions by way of mortgage. But there are some things you would like to do which require loans that are neither long nor short...

That's where the banks, operating under the new Farm Improvement Loans Act, can help you. The gap has been filled. "Intermediary" loans at a specially low rate can now be obtained for periods of two to three years—or even longer, in cases up to ten years.

So, if you have a project in mind to improve your farm, drop in and talk it over with your local bank manager. Ask him what he is now empowered to do to help make your farm living more attractive and your work more profitable.

He will tell you—and show you—that your bank is just as eager to meet the sound credit needs of the farmer as of the merchant or manufacturer.

This Advertisement is Sponsored by your Bank

"MY HAT'S OFF TO YOUR BREAD"

ROYAL YEAST CAKES

Made in Canada

"MY HAT'S OFF TO ROYAL YEAST!"

Brings you compliments on sweet, tasty bread

ALWAYS DEPENDABLE WRAPPED AIRTIGHT TO ENSURE POTENCY

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

SUCCESS

— BY — LARRY STERNING

McClure Newspaper Syndicate

Stephan Dajew was a family man. He'd been too busy being a success to give much thought to acquiring a wife. But his inherent love for children was nonetheless strong. That's why, though extremely weary after his long journey, he made no effort to disregard the group of curious youngsters whom his nephew had brought home with him after school. They swamped him with questions.

"We was studying about the Balkans in our geography class. Do you really live there?"

"Do the kids dress different from us, mother?"

"So says you own a chemical factory? That must be fun. I get chemistry set last Christmas; do you make them?"

"So says you're awful rich, mother. Are you?"

Patience and in stilled English, Uncle Steve answered all questions. All but the last. Was he rich? His mind reverted to the days when he had been but little older than these energetic American children. Formal education already lay behind him. Ahead was work, first on a farm and then in a factory.

In the factory he did just about everything, from polishing doorknobs to preparing finished textiles for shipping. A workday for Stephan was often twelve hours, or even fourteen. Small wonder that he paid scant heed to international strife, to rumblings of political jealousies. Stephan's aim was to make good. If he worked hard, honestly, success would be his.

And it was. Interested in dyeing, managed by saving over a long period of years to open his own establishment. Unexcelled products at low prices paid a gift for making and keeping friends served as the platform on which he built a thriving business.

Then came the war, but except for local disturbances in the neighboring country, the Balkans seemed stable to remain at peace.

Vain hope. The little countries were not pawns in the game of power of a fanatic who forced upon them his unwelcome "protection". Stephan's country regained territory previously lost to its neighbor. The move was calculated to make the populace bloat with favors upon the dictator, to pave the way for a pact which promised co-operation. Stephan, little versed in politics, voiced his opposition. "Our independence. Our goose-stepping toward oblivion," he predicted.

"Nonsense," scoffed one of his friends, a minor Government official. "That piece of land is but a fraction of what will be given us when the friend has conquered England. We will grow, become more independent than before!"

"I have faith in my country, Karol," Stephan affirmed, "but in fairy tales. . .," he shook his head. A week later the same official waddled into Stephan's modest office. "You seem to be doing less business these days, my friend."

"Only because our great benefactor has played havoc with transportation. Not that my products are bulky, but," Stephan shrugged, "What troubles me is the necessity for discharging some of my employees."

"Transportation facilities are the disposal of those who ship essentials," Karol enlightened. "Now if your firm were to manufacture . . . explosives . . ."

Stephan stared. "I do believe you are serious."

"I am. If you refuse to do as I suggest, your factory will be taken over by the Government. I speak as your friend, Stephan. It is wiser to consider."

Perhaps Stephan was not wise. When he realized that Karol's words were not idle ones, he did not know of any job of destroying his factory—

—the fulfillment of his dreams vanished in flame and smoke. Well, to be sure, that day, when things were normal again, he could build another. Confronted by a suspicious Karol, Stephan made no effort to deny his guilt. "I am accepting no indemnity; the loss is mine alone. Why, then, must I leave the country?"

"To avoid prison, you fool, or death. Even so you may encounter obstacles." Karol thoughtfully scratched his chin. "You are not able to effect your escape. It will take money, of course, but when one's life is at stake mere money loses its value."

Stephan smiled thinly. That this was a new form of blackmail he never doubted. Still, what could he do? Karol held the winning card.

After paying his "friend" for arranging things, Stephan had barely enough for his passage to America. The Atlantic crossing was made memorable by the rescue of a torpedoed freighter crew in the face of the survivors. Stephan read the reason for his act of arson. Could he have been expected to help all those who crumpled before the clutches of the manufacturer of explosives?

The thought was harrowing. Aboveboard in all things, Stephan balked at the prospect of his sister Mary and her husband's financial straits. But it made no difference. He was willing to share their comfortable home. Stephan thanked God that through the years he'd remembered the little family on birthdays and holidays, for now he came empty-handed.

Facing the eager youngsters, Stephan was surprised to find that he didn't make a mockery of that famous station on Bedloe's Island—the comfort of being with people whose affection for him didn't decrease along with his fortune; and the opportunity to become what he wanted.

He laid a gentle hand on the tousled head of his questioner and said solemnly, "I think I am truly rich, my boy."

Human Test Tubes

Men In U.S. Prisoners Volunteer For Medical Research

Behind bars in three of the nation's federal prisons some 200 men are gambling their lives to aid the Allies on the battlefronts.

They are the "human test tubes" for medical research against malaria, typhoid, and other diseases.

One of the most dreaded enemies fighting against the Allies, as well as Japanese, armies in the Pacific, China and India.

They have volunteered to be bitten by the disease-carrying Anopheles mosquito so they can be inoculated with preventive drugs, still under the experimental stage by the military.

Results of the experiments will remain a secret as vital as any military information the Japanese would like to obtain.

Each of the prisoners is "screened" before being accepted and doctors choose no persons who have ailments of the liver, heart or kidneys may be selected.

Ranging from life-tenures to convicts for a year and a half, and perhaps longer.

Roll your own

WITH

MACDONALD'S

FINE CUT

MACDONALD'S

Fine Cut

MACDONALD'S

Fine Cut

MACDONALD'S

Fine Cut

MACDONALD'S

Fine Cut

MACDONALD'S

Fine Cut

MACDONALD'S

Fine Cut

MACDONALD'S

Fine Cut

MACDONALD'S

Fine Cut

MACDONALD'S

Fine Cut

MACDONALD'S

Fine Cut

MACDONALD'S

Fine Cut

MACDONALD'S

Fine Cut

MACDONALD'S

Fine Cut

MACDONALD'S

Fine Cut

MACDONALD'S

Fine Cut

MACDONALD'S

Fine Cut

MACDONALD'S

Fine Cut

MACDONALD'S

Fine Cut

MACDONALD'S

Fine Cut

MACDONALD'S

Fine Cut

International Incident

Visit Of The Emperor Of Abyssinia To President Roosevelt And Mr. Churchill

The Ethiopian Embassy has issued a rather curious statement on the visits recently paid by the Emperor of Abyssinia to President Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill in Egypt. So far as the visit to the President was concerned everything was perfect. This was made "at the invitation of the President, who assigned to his Imperial Majesty an aide-de-camp and staff and special airplane for the occasion."

After reading all this it is not surprising that "the Emperor was deeply impressed with the friendly and understanding attitude of the President and his Secretary of State."

But what of Mr. Churchill? The British public will be relieved to hear that the Emperor found time to visit in a visit to the British.

As the statement put it so nicely: "While still in Egypt as the guest of the President, the Emperor was pleased to accept the invitation of the Foreign Secretary, Mr. Anthony Eden, to meet the Prime Minister, Mr. Winston Churchill, and to avail himself of this opportunity of discussing the mutual relations of the two countries."

He afterwards returned to Addis Ababa in the airplane placed at his disposal by the American Government.

One is left wondering whether it was British hospitality or British imperialism which failed to please. The Emperor might have remembered, Mr. Churchill said that "he was the first to have restored his ancient throne before our advent in 1941."

British and Indian armies in the first days of 1940-41—but of course there was no special acceptance. Mr. Churchill said that "he was the first to have restored his ancient throne before our advent in 1941."

British and Indian armies in the first days of 1940-41—but of course there was no special acceptance. Mr. Churchill said that "he was the first to have restored his ancient throne before our advent in 1941."

British and Indian armies in the first days of 1940-41—but of course there was no special acceptance. Mr. Churchill said that "he was the first to have restored his ancient throne before our advent in 1941."

British and Indian armies in the first days of 1940-41—but of course there was no special acceptance. Mr. Churchill said that "he was the first to have restored his ancient throne before our advent in 1941."

British and Indian armies in the first days of 1940-41—but of course there was no special acceptance. Mr. Churchill said that "he was the first to have restored his ancient throne before our advent in 1941."

British and Indian armies in the first days of 1940-41—but of course there was no special acceptance. Mr. Churchill said that "he was the first to have restored his ancient throne before our advent in 1941."

British and Indian armies in the first days of 1940-41—but of course there was no special acceptance. Mr. Churchill said that "he was the first to have restored his ancient throne before our advent in 1941."

British and Indian armies in the first days of 1940-41—but of course there was no special acceptance. Mr. Churchill said that "he was the first to have restored his ancient throne before our advent in 1941."

British and Indian armies in the first days of 1940-41—but of course there was no special acceptance. Mr. Churchill said that "he was the first to have restored his ancient throne before our advent in 1941."

British and Indian armies in the first days of 1940-41—but of course there was no special acceptance. Mr. Churchill said that "he was the first to have restored his ancient throne before our advent in 1941."

British and Indian armies in the first days of 1940-41—but of course there was no special acceptance. Mr. Churchill said that "he was the first to have restored his ancient throne before our advent in 1941."

British and Indian armies in the first days of 1940-41—but of course there was no special acceptance. Mr. Churchill said that "he was the first to have restored his ancient throne before our advent in 1941."

British and Indian armies in the first days of 1940-41—but of course there was no special acceptance. Mr. Churchill said that "he was the first to have restored his ancient throne before our advent in 1941."

British and Indian armies in the first days of 1940-41—but of course there was no special acceptance. Mr. Churchill said that "he was the first to have restored his ancient throne before our advent in 1941."

British and Indian armies in the first days of 1940-41—but of course there was no special acceptance. Mr. Churchill said that "he was the first to have restored his ancient throne before our advent in 1941."

British and Indian armies in the first days of 1940-41—but of course there was no special acceptance. Mr. Churchill said that "he was the first to have restored his ancient throne before our advent in 1941."

British and Indian armies in the first days of 1940-41—but of course there was no special acceptance. Mr. Churchill said that "he was the first to have restored his ancient throne before our advent in 1941."

British and Indian armies in the first days of 1940-41—but of course there was no special acceptance. Mr. Churchill said that "he was the first to have restored his ancient throne before our advent in 1941."

British and Indian armies in the first days of 1940-41—but of course there was no special acceptance. Mr. Churchill said that "he was the first to have restored his ancient throne before our advent in 1941."

British and Indian armies in the first days of 1940-41—but of course there was no special acceptance. Mr. Churchill said that "he was the first to have restored his ancient throne before our advent in 1941."

British and Indian armies in the first days of 1940-41—but of course there was no special acceptance. Mr. Churchill said that "he was the first to have restored his ancient throne before our advent in 1941."

British and Indian armies in the first days of 1940-41—but of course there was no special acceptance. Mr. Churchill said that "he was the first to have restored his ancient throne before our advent in 1941."

British and Indian armies in the first days of 1940-41—but of course there was no special acceptance. Mr. Churchill said that "he was the first to have restored his ancient throne before our advent in 1941."

Quality Guaranteed

"MY HAT'S OFF TO YOUR BREAD"

ROYAL YEAST CAKES

Made in Canada

"MY HAT'S OFF TO ROYAL YEAST!"

Brings you compliments on sweet, tasty bread

ALWAYS DEPENDABLE WRAPPED AIRTIGHT TO ENSURE POTENCY

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

SUCCESS

— BY — LARRY STERNING

McClure Newspaper Syndicate

Stephan Dajew was a family man. He'd been too busy being a success to give much thought to acquiring a wife. But his inherent love for children was nonetheless strong. That's why, though extremely weary after his long journey, he made no effort to disregard the group of curious youngsters whom his nephew had brought home with him after school. They swamped him with questions.

"We was studying about the Balkans in our geography class. Do you really live there?"

"Do the kids dress different from us, mother?"

"So says you own a chemical factory? That must be fun. I get chemistry set last Christmas; do you make them?"

"So says you're awful rich, mother. Are you?"

Patience and in stilled English, Uncle Steve answered all questions. All but the last. Was he rich? His mind reverted to the days when he had been but little older than these energetic American children. Formal education already lay behind him. Ahead was work, first on a farm and then in a factory.

In the factory he did just about everything, from polishing doorknobs to preparing finished textiles for shipping. A workday for Stephan was often twelve hours, or even fourteen. Small wonder that he paid scant heed to international strife, to rumblings of political jealousies. Stephan's aim was to make good. If he worked hard, honestly, success would be his.

And it was. Interested in dyeing, managed by saving over a long period of years to open his own establishment. Unexcelled products at low prices paid a gift for making and keeping friends served as the platform on which he built a thriving business.

Then came the war, but except for local disturbances in the neighboring country, the Balkans seemed stable to remain at peace.

Vain hope. The little countries were not pawns in the game of power of a fanatic who forced upon them his unwelcome "protection". Stephan's country regained territory previously lost to its neighbor. The move was calculated to make the populace bloat with favors upon the dictator, to pave the way for a pact which promised co-operation. Stephan, little versed in politics, voiced his opposition. "Our independence. Our goose-stepping toward oblivion," he predicted.

"Nonsense," scoffed one of his friends, a minor Government official. "That piece of land is but a fraction of what will be given us when the friend has conquered England. We will grow, become more independent than before!"

"I have faith in my country, Karol," Stephan affirmed, "but in fairy tales. . .," he shook his head. A week later the same official waddled into Stephan's modest office. "You seem to be doing less business these days, my friend."

"Only because our great benefactor has played havoc with transportation. Not that my products are bulky, but," Stephan shrugged, "What troubles me is the necessity for discharging some of my employees."

"Transportation facilities are the disposal of those who ship essentials," Karol enlightened. "Now if your firm were to manufacture . . . explosives . . ."

Stephan stared. "I do believe you are serious."

"I am. If you refuse to do as I suggest, your factory will be taken over by the Government. I speak as your friend, Stephan. It is wiser to consider."

Perhaps Stephan was not wise. When he realized that Karol's words were not idle ones, he did not know of any job of destroying his factory—

—the fulfillment of his dreams vanished in flame and smoke. Well, to be sure, that day, when things were normal again, he could build another. Confronted by a suspicious Karol, Stephan made no effort to deny his guilt. "I am accepting no indemnity; the loss is mine alone. Why, then, must I leave the country?"

"To avoid prison, you fool, or death. Even so you may encounter obstacles." Karol thoughtfully scratched his chin. "You are not able to effect your escape. It will take money, of course, but when one's life is at stake mere money loses its value."

Stephan smiled thinly. That this was a new form of blackmail he never doubted. Still, what could he do? Karol held the winning card.

After paying his "friend" for arranging things, Stephan had barely enough for his passage to America. The Atlantic crossing was made memorable by the rescue of a torpedoed freighter crew in the face of the survivors. Stephan read the reason for his act of arson. Could he have been expected to help all those who crumpled before the clutches of the manufacturer of explosives?

The thought was harrowing. Aboveboard in all things, Stephan balked at the prospect of his sister Mary and her husband's financial straits. But it made no difference. He was willing to share their comfortable home. Stephan thanked God that through the years he'd remembered the little family on birthdays and holidays, for now he came empty-handed.

Facing the eager youngsters, Stephan was surprised to find that he didn't make a mockery of that famous station on Bedloe's Island—the comfort of being with people whose affection for him didn't decrease along with his fortune; and the opportunity to become what he wanted.

He laid a gentle hand on the tousled head of his questioner and said solemnly, "I think I am truly rich, my boy."

Human Test Tubes

Men In U.S. Prisoners Volunteer For Medical Research

Behind bars in three of the nation's federal prisons some 200 men are gambling their lives to aid the Allies on the battlefronts.

They are the "human test tubes" for medical research against malaria, typhoid, and other diseases.

One of the most dreaded enemies fighting against the Allies, as well as Japanese, armies in the Pacific, China and India.

They have volunteered to be bitten by the disease-carrying Anopheles mosquito so they can be inoculated with preventive drugs, still under the experimental stage by the military.

Results of the experiments will remain a secret as vital as any military information the Japanese would like to obtain.

Each of the prisoners is "screened" before being accepted and doctors choose no persons who have ailments of the liver, heart or kidneys may be selected.

Ranging from life-tenures to convicts for a year and a half, and perhaps longer.

Are your lunch box means measuring up? . . .

1 1/2 cups All-Brain 1 1/2 teaspoons salt 1 1/2 cups boiling water 1 cup compressed yeast 1 cup lukewarm water 1 cup salted butter 1 cup flour

Crumble All-Brain boiling water, shortening, molasses and salt, let cool until lukewarm. Add yeast which has been softened in lukewarm water, then add the rest of the ingredients. Mix well. Put in greased bowl, turning over until outside of dough is covered. Let rise until double in bulk. Beat vigorously. Put into greased bread pan. Let rise again until almost double. Bake in moderate oven 450° for 1 hour. Ten minutes before removing loaves from oven, brush tops with butter. Yield: Two 1 1/2-pound loaves.

International Incident

Visit Of The Emperor Of Abyssinia To President Roosevelt And Mr. Churchill

The Ethiopian Embassy has issued a rather curious statement on the visits recently paid by the Emperor of Abyssinia to President Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill in Egypt. So far as the visit to the President was concerned everything was perfect. This was made "at the invitation of the President, who assigned to his Imperial Majesty an aide-de-camp and staff and special airplane for the occasion."

After reading all this it is not surprising that "the Emperor was deeply impressed with the friendly and understanding attitude of the President and his Secretary of State."

But what of Mr. Churchill? The British public will be relieved to hear that the Emperor found time to visit in a visit to the British.

As the statement put it so nicely: "While still in Egypt as the guest of the President, the Emperor was pleased to accept the invitation of the Foreign Secretary, Mr. Anthony Eden, to meet the Prime Minister, Mr. Winston Churchill, and to avail himself of this opportunity of discussing the mutual relations of the two countries."

He afterwards returned to Addis Ababa in the airplane placed at his disposal by the American Government.

One is left wondering whether it was British hospitality or British imperialism which failed to please. The Emperor might have remembered, Mr. Churchill said that "he was the first to have restored his ancient throne before our advent in 1941."

British and Indian armies in the first days of 1940-41—but of course there was no special acceptance. Mr. Churchill said that "he was the first to have restored his ancient throne before our advent in 1941."

British and Indian armies in the first days of 1940-41—but of course there was no special acceptance. Mr. Churchill said that "he was the first to have restored his ancient throne before our advent in 1941."

British and Indian armies in the first days of 1940-41—but of course there was no special acceptance. Mr. Churchill said that "he was the first to have restored his ancient throne before our advent in 1941."

British and Indian armies in the first days of 1940-41—but of course there was no special acceptance. Mr. Churchill said that "he was the first to have restored his ancient throne before our advent in 1941."

British and Indian armies in the first days of 1940-41—but of course there was no special acceptance. Mr. Churchill said that "he was the first to have restored his ancient throne before our advent in 1941."

British and Indian armies in the first days of 1940-41—but of course there was no special acceptance. Mr. Churchill said that "he was the first to have restored his ancient throne before our advent in 1941."

British and Indian armies in the first days of 1940-41—but of course there was no special acceptance. Mr. Churchill said that "he was the first to have restored his ancient throne before our advent in 1941."

British and Indian armies in the first days of 1940-41—but of course there was no special acceptance. Mr. Churchill said that "he was the first to have restored his ancient throne before our advent in 1941."

British and Indian armies in the first days of 1940-41—but of course there was no special acceptance. Mr. Churchill said that "he was the first to have restored his ancient throne before our advent in 1941."

British and Indian armies in the first days of 1940-41—but of course there was no special acceptance. Mr. Churchill said that "he was the first to have restored his ancient throne before our advent in 1941."

British and Indian armies in the first days of 1940-41—but of course there was no special acceptance. Mr. Churchill said that "he was the first to have restored his ancient throne before our advent in 1941."

INCREASED NUMBERS OF PEOPLE ARE SMOKING TOBACCO

During the last twenty years there has been a great increase in the number of smokers as well as in the volume of smoking.

Why, it is asked, do people start smoking tobacco? The answer is thus some start for the novelty of the experience, some to be in the swim and conform to a custom that seems to be rapidly becoming universal. People continue the habit because of the pleasant sensation experienced, for something to occupy their attention and for what might be called "sociability."

Most people have stomach symptoms, headache and dizziness when they first use tobacco. Some always have dizziness if they smoke to excess or before they have a meal. The cause of this is the fact that smoking causes the muscles of the blood vessels contract and thus the blood supply to the brain is diminished. Severe pain over the heart, is "tabacco angina" is likely caused by a diminished blood supply to the heart muscle. In one form of arterial disease, where the vessels are narrowed or partly obstructed, smoking causes immediate pain in the limbs from reduced blood supply.

Smoking should be stopped if there is coronary heart disease. It also has a bad effect if a person has a stomach or duodenal ulcer. The irritation to the nose and throat and smokers' cough seem to make sinus trouble and catarrhal deafness worse. Smoking is a habit not an addiction and anyone can stop smoking with very little unhappiness if they are convinced that they should stop. Even inveterate smokers, who for one cause or another discontinue the habit, have stated they feel like "new persons."

It makes little difference whether a pipe, cigars or cigarettes are smoked. It is the amount of smoking that is significant. When a normally healthy person smokes not more than six cigarettes a day or two mild cigars or only a corresponding amount in a pipe, he may be classed as a non-smoker as far as health is concerned. Denicotinized cigarettes are expensive and really are not worth buying for the slightly reduced nicotine content.

Tobacco is not a sedative and it does not cause stimulation or bring a "lift" to those accustomed to its use. The act of smoking and the slight of the smoke may divert the mental processes in people who are

Town & District

Miss B. J. McQueen, who is with the nursing staff of the Medicine Hat Hospital spent the weekend in town visiting her parents.

Mrs. Campbell Brown, matron of the Blackfoot Indian hospital, left for Edmonton Monday morning where she will holiday for a short time.

John Kennedy, age 56 who had been a resident of Eventide Home for the past two years died last Wednesday. He was born in Belfast, Ireland and had lived in the province for the past 30 years. He came to Home from Calgary. By occupation he was working intensely and thus provides an opportunity for relaxation.

Unbiased scientists have tried to determine the harmfulness of smoking and the following, although not a satisfactory answer, is the opinion of a famous Harvard specialist:

"If a man or woman uses tobacco he or she may live as long, be as happy and free from disease as a neighbor who does not indulge. If a man or woman uses tobacco to excess he or she may suffer disaster or may die sooner than a neighbor who does not indulge."

was a commercial traveller. The funeral took place Friday afternoon when services were conducted by Major Luxton of the Salvation Army. Interment was made in Eventide cemetery.

Two Gleichen visitors in Edmonton this week are Sigs. D. Woods and L. Gilbert. Travellers in their middle years.

Shoppers may buy both preserves and jam on the same preserves coupon, the price board says. Both purchases must not total over twelve cents, the value of one preserves coupon.

Farmers are reminded that the Price Board can not consider applications for new, rationed equipment, when they sell their used equipment without first consulting the ration of rice, regarding replacement.

Seven women are among the 400 doctors in the Royal Canadian Navy. They do the same work as the male doctors and have equivalent rank and pay.

Because of Canadian farm labor shortages, National Selective Service officers have been given authority to direct any male of 16 to 60 years of age to a job in agriculture.

The National Film Board brings monthly movie program to 1000 rural communities across Canada—this through its rural circuits.

D. E. W. HEATY

Director
Livestock Extension Service
Winnipeg, Manitoba

More About Extension

Education, including so-called extension, is a function of provincial governments. Agricultural experimentation and research is mostly in Dominion Government hands.

It is necessary to assume, at present, that the administrative features of agricultural service by means of extension are not to change materially. It might be advantageous to combine the extension services of universities and provincial departments of agriculture. There are many arguments for placing experimental farms under a provincial administration with headquarters at the provincial university. On the other hand, there is much to be said for an expansion of extension and educational services through channels of the Dominion Department of Agriculture. The possibility of any such radical measure, even if they are desirable, is remote.

Two ways, at least, of improvement are open to us under the existing setup. One is the expansion and improvement of present services, and the other is the co-ordination of services both within and between provinces.

The absence of a direct administrative connection between research and experimental institutions, chiefly Dominion Government and universities, and the extension service, chiefly provincial, is a serious weakness. As a result, many Dominion Government experimentalists have, often in spite of themselves, been successful extension workers. We suggest that provincial extension service should engage specialists in plant diseases, soils, insects, etc., to work with and through the agricultural representatives.

Our second proposal is to the effect that annual or semi-annual Prairie Province extension conferences should be held, so that workers might benefit from an interchange of ideas and that our left hand may know what our right hand is doing.

To harvest good carrots for the winter supply free from insect injury, need should be sown as late as the end of June. If this is done carrots that are well developed and free from damage by the carrot rust fly will be produced.

CLASSIFIED ADS

FOR SALE—One Lighter Day high oven cook stove $60. Apply to Mrs. Thos. Jones, Box 82, Gleichen.

FOR SALE—Certified Netted Gem picked seed potatoes. 2 1/2 cents per pound. Bring your own containers. N. B. Hayes, Gleichen.

Given Away

by Kinsmen Club in Aid of

MILK-FOR-BRITAIN

Year-round stucco home at Sylvan Lake popular Alberta summer resort. Screened front and back verandas. Complete furnishings include chesterfield suite and electric washer. One block from lake front and business section. Tickets 3 for a dollar, or get 3 free for selling book. Write, Kinsmen Club, Box 53, Rocky Mountain House Alta. Registered under War Charities Act.

Hand Made

RIDING BOOTS,
SHOES AND CHAPPS

Made to Order

COWBOY HATS
SHOE REPAIRING

at
CASSIDY'S BOOT SHOP

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

101

The Business Of Farming Requires RESERVE

Farmers always need "extra money" at seed time...

"Extra money" is needed to pay harvest hands...

You can often make a profit if you have cash to buy young animals...

"READY MONEY" is the common term for what businessmen call "Reserve Funds". In any language, "Ready Money" is a handy thing to have.

None realize this need more than a farmer: for in the business of farming there are so many times that extra money is needed... for bills that must be met... to take advantage of opportunities... "to turn a dollar" with profit.

There are many times when a farmer needs "extra money". Without a reserve fund he must either sell something "for what he can get for it" or borrow, if he can get a loan.

Victory Bonds provide a safe and convenient form in which to keep savings until needed. Victory Bonds earn double bank interest. When you have Victory Bonds you can get a loan from any bank at any time without any formality, and the interest the bonds earn pays a large part of the interest on the loan.

Victory Bonds can be bought for cash which you have saved or bought on convenient deferred payments with money as you get it.

Buy Victory Bonds to provide a reserve of working capital for your farm. Buy them, too, to help maintain your country's war effort. They pay interest these two ways.

Get ready to buy
VICTORY BONDS

at VICTORY LOAN OFFICE, April 11, 1945
NATIONAL WAR FINANCE COMMITTEE

DEPARTMENT OF MUNITIONS AND SUPPLY

Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister

